DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1, 5-7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the plane" in line 16. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chamourian (4,886,184) in view of Amberg (3,179,283). Chamourian discloses the limitations of the claims including a thermoplastic (Abstract) container lid (figs. 1-6) suitable for use with a cover foil (col. 1, line 9) comprising a body (12), skirt (24), rim (20) with recess (fig. 4), mirror (14), outer part (portion of body 1 outside said rim and adjacent skirt 24), wherein said rim has two bridge part indentations (18, 22). Chamourian excludes what Amberg teaches, bridges (fig. 3, space separating segmented annular rim 17a) thereby utilizing less material. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify Chamourian with bridges in order to connect said mirror and outer part, provide a break in said rim and utilize less material thereby reducing production cost.

Chamourian excludes what would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention, disposing said indentations at negative angles at a place where there is no bridge in order to facilitate design choice and to create an ergonomic gripping handle for lid removal. Moreover, a change in form or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art, absent any showing of unexpected results. In re Dailey et al., 149 USPQ 47.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 6 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as described in par. 5. The references as described in par. 5 disclose the limitations of the claims excluding what would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention, having 6 or more bridges in order to facilitate design choice and having bridges with a width of 3 mm or more thereby providing sufficient stability for stacking while optimizing material usage by reducing the presence of the rim. Moreover, it has been held that rearranging parts of an invention involves only routine skill in the art. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70. Furthermore, a change in form or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art, absent any showing of unexpected results. In re Dailey et al., 149 USPQ 47.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

9. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including: "The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references. A general allegation that the claims "define a patentable invention" without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section. Moreover, "The prompt development of a clear Issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims." Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06 and MPEP 714.02. The "disclosure" includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
